WELCOME TO METRO.USNEW COLOMBIA PREZ MAY SEEK TO REVISE PEACE DEAL

Right-wing candidate Ivan Duque won Colombia's presidential election on Sunday, beating leftist Gustavo Petro in a victory that will reassure investors but raised the prospect of changes to a landmark peace accord with Marxist rebels. With 99.9 percent of polling stations counted, Duque comfortably won the ballot with 54.0 percent of votes while Petro, who had pledged to shake up Colombia's economic model, had 41.8 percent. It was Colombia's first presidential election since the 2016 peace deal with the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia (FARC), which ended their part in a five-decade conflict that has killed more than 220,000 people and displaced millions. Duque, 41, the business friendly protégé of hardline former President Alvaro Uribe, wants to change the deal, which he deems too lenient on the Marxist FARC rebels, while keeping Colombia's economic policies intact. By contrast, former guerrilla Petro had pledged to take on political elites, redistribute land to the poor and gradually eliminate the need for oil and coal in Latin America's fourth-largest economy.

FIVE DEAD AFTER TEXAS
BORDER PATROL CAR CHASE

Five immigrants died and several others were injured Sunday when their vehicle careened out of control while being chased by U.S. Border Patrol agents in Texas about 90 miles north of the Mexican border, U.S. media reported, citing officials. Some of the injured were ejected from a Chevy Suburban packed with 14 people that was traveling up to 100 miles per hour, Dimmit County Sheriff Marion Boyd told KFDM News 4 television of San Antonio. "The vehicle ran off the road and caught gravel and then tried to recorrect and then caused the vehicle to turn over several times," Boyd told CNN. "We've seen this many, many times, in not only this county but other counties along the border," Boyd told CNN. "This is a perfect example of why our borders need to be secure." Some of the victims were flown by helicopter to San Antonio for medical treatment. Border Patrol agents attempted to stop the vehicle when the chase ensued and were soon joined by Dimmit County deputies, KFDM reported.

KOEPKA HOLDS OFF FLEET-
WOOD TO WIN US OPEN

American Brooks Koepka putted brilliantly to win the U.S. Open by one stroke at Shinnecock Hills on Sunday, becoming the first player in almost 30 years to successfully defend his title. England's Tommy Fleetwood gave him a run for his money with a seven-under-par 63 that matched the lowest score in tournament history, but Koepka's closing 68 saw him finish top of the leaderboard on one-over 281. Dustin Johnson was left to ponder another major that got away. After starting the day in a four-way tie for the lead with Koepka, Daniel Berger and Tony Finau, 2016 champion Johnson carded a 70 to finish two shots back in third place. Masters champion Patrick Reed (68) was fourth, three strokes behind Koepka, after his early charge — five birdies in the first seven holes — faltered. With the win, Koepka became the first player to win back-to-back U.S. Opens since Curtis Strange in 1988 and 1989. "I don't think I could have dreamed of this, going back-to-back," Koepka said when interviewed by Strange on the 18th green. "It feels so good to have this thing back."

UN SPECIAL ENVOY JOLIE
VISITS SYRIAN REFUGEES

2 The world is failing to properly invest in the Syrian refugee crisis and families, women, and children are suffering terribly as a result, U.N. refugee agency special envoy Angelina Jolie said on Sunday. The Hollywood actress was visiting the Domiz Camp, in the semi-autonomous Kurdistan Region of Iraq, which is home to 33,000 Syrian refugees displaced by seven years of civil war. Funding received by the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) to help refugees from the Syrian conflict fell sharply this year from 2017 when the agency received only 50 percent of the funds it needed, Jolie told a news conference. "There are terrible human consequences. When there is even not the bare minimum of aid, refugee families cannot receive adequate medical treatment. Women and girls are left vulnerable to sexual violence, many children cannot go to school, and we squander the opportunity to invest in refugees," she said. UNHCR will publish figures on Tuesday that show that the number of displaced people globally, and the duration of their exiles, are "the highest they have ever been," she said.

One dead, 22 injured in Trenton art festival shooting

Police say a neighborhood dispute is thought to be the motive.

letters@metro.us

Chaos broke out at the Art All Night Trenton 2018 festival in the early morning hours on Sunday when two reported gunmen opened fire, injuring 22 adults and children.

The New Jersey art festival, held at a 24-hour venue held at the Roebing Wire Works Building on the 600 block of South Clinton Avenue, closed down following the shootings so officials can conduct their investigation.

According to CNN, one of the suspects, identified as a 33-year-old man, was reportedly killed by police. The second suspect is believed to be in police custody.

"We're still processing much of this and we don't have many answers at this time, but please know that our staff, our volunteers, our artists and musicians all seem to be healthy and accounted for. Our sincere, heartfelt sympathies are with those who were injured," festival organizers said on Facebook.

Around 2:45 a.m. on Sunday, two unidentified gunmen went on a shooting spree in an area where roughly 1,000 people were taking in the sights of artwork in various mediums.

Multiple weapons were confiscated by police at the scene.

"It absolutely could have been worse given the confined space and the number of shots that appear to have been fired," prosecutor Angelo Onofri said.

Reuters reported that the shootings were the result of a dispute among rival gangs in the neighborhood.

All but five of the shooting victims are said to be in stable condition after suffering from gunshot wounds and were transported to Capital Health Regional Medical Center and St. Francis Medical Center.

Four victims were listed in critical condition, while one victim, a 13-year-old, has been listed in extremely critical condition, Onofri said.

SHOOTING AT GREENWICH VILLAGE BAR INJURES 3

Three men sustained gunshot wounds at a New York hookah lounge and bar around early Sunday morning, according to police.

Police were called to the Falucka Lounge on Bleecker Street where a 29-year-old man was shot in the calf while another 27-year-old victim was shot in the groin. The third victim, a 33-year-old man, was shot in the leg and back.

It's unclear if the three men were shot inside the Falucka Lounge or outside. A dispute is said to be the cause.

"A lot of people were in there, everyone was having a good time," an eyewitness inside the lounge told CBS New York. "I guess a couple people came outside with their rowdiness and one thing led to another. I haven't seen anything like this happen in this area at all," he said.

Thomas Watts, who lives and operates a sports bar across the street from the hookah lounge, described the aftermath of the shooting to the New York Daily News as chaotic.

"I was in bed. I was sleeping. I ran down, looked at the windows. I saw cops running around," Thomas Watts shared. "It was chaos. I smelled gunpowder through my window."

The three victims were all transported to Bellevue Hospital. They have been listed in stable condition.

Democrats, activists rally against Trump's family-separation policy

Lawmakers gathered at a Elizabeth, New Jersey, detention facility Sunday.

Democratic lawmakers joined hundreds of protesters outside an immigration detention facility in New Jersey on Sunday for a Father's Day demonstration against the Trump administration's practice of separating children from their parents at the U.S.-Mexico border.

"This must not be who we are as a nation," said Rep. Jerrold Nadler, one of seven members of Congress from New York and New Jersey who met with five detainees inside the facility, including three who said they had young relatives removed from their care after seeking asylum at the border.

The event in the city of Elizabeth came as news stories highlighting the family separations intensified political pressure on the White House, even from some of President Donald Trump's fellow Republicans.

U.S. officials said Friday that nearly 2,000 children were separated from adults at the border between mid-April and the end of May.

In May, Attorney General Jeff Sessions announced a "zero-tolerance" policy in which all those apprehended entering the United States illegally, including those seeking asylum, would be criminally charged, which generally leads to children being separated from their parents.

The policy has drawn condemnation from medical professionals, religious leaders and immigration activists, who warn that some children could suffer lasting psychological trauma. The children are held in government facilities, released to adult sponsors or placed in temporary foster care.

In South Texas on Sunday, several Democratic lawmakers, including Sen. Jeff Merkley, were due to tour detention facilities to call attention to the policy, while Representative Beto O'Rourke, who is running for the U.S. Senate in Texas, said he would march with protesters to the border.

"This is inhumane," O'Rourke told CNN. "I'd like to say it's un-American, but it's happening right now in America."

Administration officials have defended the tactic as necessary to secure the border and suggested it would act as a deterrent to illegal immigration, while Trump has sought to blame Democrats, saying their support for passage of a broader immigration bill would end the separations.

"As a mother, as a Catholic, as somebody who has got a conscience. ... I will tell you that nobody likes this policy," White House adviser Kellyanne Conway said on NBC's "Meet the Press" on Sunday. "You saw the president [say] on camera that he wants this to end."

A rep for Melania Trump told CNN on Sunday that the first lady "hates to see children separated from their families" and hopes lawmakers from both parties can agree on immigration reform, in what was a rare public statement on a policy issue from the president's wife. Her "Be Best" platform, unveiled in May, is dedicated to children's well-being.

The lawmakers in Elizabeth waited about 90 minutes to gain access to the detention facility, which is operated for the U.S. government by a private contractor.

Roy Garcia, 43, attended the protest with his wife, Linda, and their sons, 8-year-old Julian and 11-year-old Sebastian.

"It's hard for me to enjoy Father's Day knowing what's happening to other children and families," he said.

Treatment offers new hope for erectile dysfunction

If you're at war with erectile dysfunction (ED), you're not alone. In fact, one in every four new patients is under the age of 40, according to the Journal of Sexual Medicine. While it may be comforting to know that it's more common than you think, you're probably more concerned with getting it under control. And we don't blame you—ED takes a serious toll on relationships, intimacy and overall well-being.

Enter ErectionWave, an innovative new approach that flips traditional ED treatment on its head. More often than not, the go-to answer is a lifetime Viagra prescription. The big downside here is that this really only treats the symptom, not the underlying problem. It also leaves you completely dependent on medication to enjoy a satisfying sex life.

Founded by a renowned Board Certified Urologist Dr. David Shusterman, ErectionWave is different in that it improves sex without medication. As the name implies, it directs high-frequency waves toward blood vessels that are normally narrow or blocked. This, in turn, optimizes blood flow, allowing for naturally strong erections. This holistic treatment also increases the size of penile veins and increases nerve function.

Translation: it's a noninvasive treatment option that actually gets to the root of erectile dysfunction.

Dr. Shusterman and his team of experienced sex function specialists are dedicated to eliminating the need for penile pumps, injections, and drugs like Viagra. They also offer highly effective alternative treatments that go beyond ErectionWave therapy. One pathway is hormone replacement—an umbrella term that covers a wide array of robust therapy options that are completely tailored to each individual patient. Addressing any hormonal causes of ED is critical to improving sexual desire and, ultimately, getting on the other side of erectile dysfunction.

Another successful option for men with ED is something known as the Priapus shot, aptly named after the Greek god of virility. The P-shot, as it's called, is a non-surgical, completely pain-free penis injection that serves double duty: improving sexual performance and increasing penis size by up to 3.5 centimeters; a game changer for those who are at the end of their rope with erectile dysfunction. It also leverages your own regenerative cells, making it completely safe and totally natural.

Ready to tackle your ED once and for all? Book an appointment with Dr. Shusterman at NY Urology, located at 800 Second Avenue on the corner of 42nd Street. Call 212-661-0060 to take the first step toward a healthy, satisfying sex life.

What a fine way to celebrate Father's Day! Rip a few hundred immigrant families apart!

The heat is rising on the Trump administration's policy of separating parents from their children at the border, and not just because of the large, canvas tents in the 100-degree South Texas sun. Democrats are howling. Texans are howling. Many Republicans are howling, too.

But Donald Trump, who could change the zero tolerance policy with a poke of his Twitter finger or a stroke of his pen, is still refusing to budge, pandering to the narrow swath of Americans who judge a national immigrant policy by how much pain its afflicts on the most vulnerable immigrants.

Mike Pence had better find a new Bible verse to defend this latest abomination, and it won't be Matthew 25:40: "Whatever you do to the least of my brothers, that you do unto me."

Even some knee-jerk Trump defenders are distancing themselves. "As a mother, as a Catholic, as someone with a conscience," White House counselor Kellyanne Conway said to Chuck Todd on NBC's "Meet the Press," "I will tell you that nobody likes this policy." Still, Conway, echoing others in the White House, continued to duck responsibility, blaming Democrats for a Trump administration policy announced by Attorney General Jeff Sessions.

But the pictures coming out of Texas were so harsh — 20 kids to a tent in the desert, their parents who knows where — that even first lady Melania Trump, who rarely contradicts her husband, felt pressure to weigh in. "Mrs. Trump hates to see children separated from their families," spokeswoman Stephanie Grisham told CNN, "She believes we need to be a country that follows all laws, but also a country that governs with heart."

Taking kids away from their moms and dads, of course, is not going to stop drugs from entering the country and protect us against ISIS terrorists. It won't even secure the border from the next wave of desperate Central American asylum-seekers. It certainly won't get Trump's wall built.

What it will do is hurt a bunch of parents and children.

Hope you had a nice Father's Day.

This inflatable satellite could revolutionize disaster recovery

The portable technology helped restore communication to Puerto Rico after Hurricane Maria.

KRISTIN TOUSSAINT
kristin.toussaint@metro.us

After any sort of disaster, communication is key. Emergency management officials need to reach federal or local agencies to start disaster-recovery efforts and learn which areas need which services right away. And, of course, people want to be able to call and check on family and friends.

But the nature of a disaster often dismantles the methods of communication. After Hurricane Maria made landfall on Puerto Rico in September, the majority of the island's power and telecommunications systems were destroyed, hampering disaster recovery.

With more than 91 percent of cell towers and most of the 2,400 miles of electricity transmission lines downed by the storm, Puerto Rico was practically cut off from the rest of the world.

But one innovation prevented Puerto Rico from being completely isolated: an inflatable satellite antenna that can fit inside a backpack, so it can be set up anywhere without large, expensive equipment or the need for roadways to be cleared first.

This innovation comes from Cubic, a corporation with subsidiaries in the global defense and transportation mar-division.

“Radar antennas have been used in the military for quite some while now and we're looking at things like what happened last year, where you had disasters both in Houston and down in Florida and again in Puerto Rico, and how we could get all those centers to communicate together so that relief operations will be more efficient," said Paul Garzon from GATR.

The GATR antenna was able to maintain cellphone signals and Wi-Fi hotspots for people in Puerto Rico. Since that storm, GATR has been working on even more developments to the system to speed up disaster recovery, like "unified video" software and tools to clarify those video images in the case of cloud cover or rain, so you can really see what's happening in the field.

"So imagine in a situation, we've got drones going up there and those drones are delivering video to your staff," Garzon said. "You can see where the flooding is, you can see what roads are impassable and then you can share this with folks perhaps in Texas or in Washington, D.C., with FEMA operations centers."

This isn't reserved for hurricane recovery, either, or limited to aid an island like Puerto Rico.

"It can work anywhere," Garzon said, and in a world where more intense storms might come more frequently — in New York City alone, experts predict the future will bring "Sandy-like storms" every 20 years, despite the 2012 disaster initially being dubbed a "once-in-a-lifetime" event — it might have to.

For 36th straight year Coney Island's NYC Mermaid Parade celebrates the sea

Thousands of onlookers and participants gathered on West 21st Street and Surf Avenue in Coney Island on Saturday, to take part in NYC's Annual Mermaid Parade.

The annual Brooklyn event marked 36 years as one of New York's biggest summer parades. Marchers celebrate the ancient mythology of the sea dressed as mermaids, merpeople and various sea creatures, walking the route down West 10th Street to the boardwalk, ending at Steeplechase Plaza.

This year, event organizers nominated singer-songwriter Amanda Palmer of Dresden Dolls as their royal Queen Mermaid. Palmer was joined by her husband, "American Gods" writer Neil Gaiman, as King Neptune.

"We are very excited to have Amanda Palmer & Neil Gaiman lead the parade, as this year's Queen Mermaid & King Neptune" Parade and Coney Island USA Founder Dick Zigun shared. "And we are thrilled to have our good friends at the Coney Island Brewery as presenter and Kitchen 21 as our co-presenter."

Palmer and Gaiman were excited and smiling, as they led the parade, decked out in their dazzling ocean-themed attire as they were rolled in an antique wicker Boardwalk Chair, a tradition for the Queen Mermaid and King of Neptune. Their young son sat in the wicker chair with them, waving at the crowd.

After making their way through the streets with sea creatures, bands, antique cars and colorful floats trailing behind, Palmer and Gaiman led marchers to the beach, where Mermaid Parade Founder Dick D. Zigun officiated the annual beach ceremony to officially open the ocean for summer swimming on Coney Island.

Following the annual Mermaid Parade, many attended the Mermaid Parade Ball hosted by Kitchen 21.

“Demand Soars For Innovative Arthritis Treatment FDA

NYC Pain MD doctors offer powerful, cutting-edge arthritis treatment... prepares for overw

By Matt Edgar

America's Health Writer

Arthritis sufferers can't get it fast enough and doctors offering it can't keep up with the demand. "Results are better than even I anticipated" noted one of the treating docs at the NY Pain MD Center for Non-Surgical Medical Relief Of Spine And Joint Pain with two locations right here in NYC.

He was referring to their innovative arthritis treatment program featuring Advanced Image-guided "Visco-Supplementation" at the conveniently located clinics..

"The response continues to be overwhelming. Once patients found out there was an FDA cleared, doctor-administered arthritis treatment that actually works – without the side effects of oral pain pills or risks of replacement surgery - and has enough scientific research that it is covered by many insurances and even Part B medicare – the offices continue to be deluged with arthritis pain sufferers wanting to find if they, too, can be helped. And newer research indicates it can help hips, ankles and shoulders as well".

What Is This

Treatment And How Does It Work?

If you are suffering with knee (or other joint) arthritis and pain, you are not alone. Degenerative joint disease or "arthritis" affects 21 mil-lion Americans and typically involves the weight bearing joints – like your knees. According to the American College of Rheumatology, nearly 70% of people over the age of 70 have x-ray evidence of the disease (and the ranks of much younger victims of this progressive disorder continue to grow significantly).

The worst thing is: Arthritis can be devastating. The pain can keep you up at night and make getting out of bed and moving around a daunting task. The pain and stiffness can suck all the happiness and joy right out of your life or that appealing to most patients. The basic protocol has been a steady diet of toxic pain pills until your joints completely wear out and then it's time to surgically replace the knee joint.

But Now Things Have Changed

Osteoarthritis is a joint disease that mostly affects the cartilage. Cartilages the tissue that covers the ends on bones in a joint. When healthy, cartilage allows bones to glide smoothly over one another and acts as a shock absorber. Your "normal" knee also contains a small amount of fluid called synovial fluid. This synovial fluid is a thick, gel-like solution that cushions and lubricates the joint—much like oil lubricates the engine of your car.

In osteoarthritis, the synovial fluid loses it's lubricating properties and "dries up" allowing the cartilage to break down and wear away. This is like running your car with little or no oil. Now as you attempt to use your knee(s), there is not enough lubrication causing the bones to grind together resulting in pain, swelling, stiffness and the joint continues to wear out. This is a vicious cycle and can lead to bone-on-bone rubbing and excruciating pain. Pain pills do NOT lubricate the joint or fix the problem. They simply mask the pain so you do not feel the pain as your joints continue to deteriorate. The eventual repercussions of this are obvious.

"Visco" Is Very Different

And here is why: It contains hyaluronate, one of the two natural lubricating agents found in your own synovial fluid. Viscosupplementation is precisely introduced directly in to your knee joint in a series of 3-5 treatments (depending on severity) over a 4 to 6 week period. This instantly cushions the joint, reduces friction and allows greater motion with less pain or no pain at all in some cases.

This treatment not only lubricates the joint, but it acts as a shock absorber helping reduce grinding, inflammation and pain. Here's something very important to consider: Even though these lubricating medicines are non-toxic natural substances and are NOT considered a drug, it is NOT something you can get at your local health food store. It is scientifically researched and produced by pharmaceutical companies, FDA cleared and can ONLY be administered by a qualified Doctor.

What's Results Can You Expect?

According to one developers and manufacturers of these special gel medicines ... "A course of treatment –will relieve pain in a majority of patients for 6 months without the safety concerns of non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drug (NSAID) therapy. In many patients, the effect is likely to last even longer than 6 months. "And the best part is: Since these gel lubricants are natural substances; they can be used over and re over when necessary without risk. If it works for you, you may be able to look forward to years with less pain.

Who Should Consider Viscosupplementation... Where Can You Get It And...

When Should You Start?

You should certainly consider The NY Pain MD method if you have been diagnosed with knee arthritis or told you need a knee replacement. If you have not been diagnosed with arthritis but have either knee pain, stiffness, swelling, difficulty walking or climbing stairs or loss of motion in the knee – you should have an examination to determine what the cause of your problem is. If you have any of those issues mentioned, there is a very good chance you already have-or are starting to get arthritis.

Very Important – Do Not Wait - Here's Why ...

Studies indicate that if the arthritis is caught soon enough, the cushioning effect of the treatments c may be able to help the knee heal and possibly, slow the arthritis thus help avoid joint replacement surgery. In other words, the sooner you start – the better. Does the procedure hurt? A local anesthetic is given to numb the area and the procedure is virtually painless. Most patients say it feels like nothing more than a slight "pinching" sensation... that's it.

Why Treatments At NYC Pain MD Are So Extremely Precise

Our doctors are particularly well-trained in a state-of-the-art digital fluoroscopic imaging - also known at Precision Arthritis Targeting - which allows them to see directly inside the joint during the procedure and get the natural cushioning medicine exactly where it needs to go. This makes sure treatments have the best possibility for maximum success. This is crucial because studies indicate that when doing these types of procedures - without digital imaging - it can miss the joint space up to 30% of the time rendering the treatment outcomes less effective.

How To Check Out This Breakthrough Treatment And See It Is Right For You For FREE

All the doctors at NY Pain MD are extremely excited about the response and results with this wonderful treatment and would like to share it with as many arthritis sufferers as possible.

Read This If You Have Already Had Treatment Without Good Results

Even if you've failed Synvisc, Supartz, or other arthritis programs or had "blind" procedures, good results may still be possible when using NY Pain MD methods utilizing Precision Arthritis Targeting Technology (P.A.T.T.). To achieve the best results.

helping demand as news of it's impressive results spread across NYC and Tri-State Area preventing and ending youth homelessness.

"Giving all young people an opportunity to succeed is our top priority in New York City — and for youth facing homelessness, that means providing dedicated spaces, resources, and programming that will help them stabilize their lives in a safe and supportive environment," said Department of Social Services Commissioner Steven Banks in a statement.

The task force builds on other efforts by the city to prevent and end youth homelessness. In March of this year, City Council passed legislation allowing homeless young adults to stay in shelters until they are 24 years old. Previously, the max age for a homeless youth shelter was 21.

In September, first lady Chirlane McCray announced the NYC Unity Project, focused on serving LGBTQ homeless youth. The city's first LGBTQ youth homeless shelter opened in the Bronx in 2017.

"Having a place to live is a basic human right," McCray said in a statement announcing the task force. "If we are to truly help New York youth reach their full potential and contribute their talents and energies to our city then we need to find some new solutions to the homeless problem."

There are more than 7,000 homeless New Yorkers 24 years old and younger, though the city's yearly count admits this is an imperfect estimate. It's difficult to get an accurate number on youth homelessness, to find and then to reach out to these New Yorkers with resources.

To better inform the city's next steps, New York City is launching its first Youth Homelessness Task Force.

"Building on existing initiatives, this work group will put forth new ideas to prevent youth homelessness, while ensuring that those who are in our care have the ability to leave with the appropriate resources to live healthy and productive lives," said Dr. Herminia Palacio, deputy mayor for Health and Human Services, in a statement.

The task force is made up of 15 city agencies, 26 nonprofits and 10 youth leaders from the Youth Action Board, and will develop a plan to inform the city's next steps for especially at the train station. The parking lot at the train station that I take just north of Boston fills up very quickly. If you don't get there before 7 a.m. during the week, it can be pretty difficult to find a spot. There's really no parking anywhere near the train station, either, as most of the side streets require a parking permit or do not allow parking on the street at all. So basically, if you don't get a spot before 7 a.m., you're pretty much screwed! Since spaces are so limited at this parking lot, people should be much more considerate when parking. I realize people are in a rush in the morning, but if you just take two seconds to check if you parked within the appropriate space, there wouldn't be all this wasted space and people wouldn't be screwed out of a spot. I know I'm not the only one that feels like this. I usually start out the day feeling pretty good, but when I see this my blood pressure starts to go up! It's unbelievable how people just don't care. Hopefully I'm next week's Grumble winner!

An oral history of the Clover Club

Owner Julie Reiner tells us how she went from the beaches of Hawaii to opening the bar that would redefine Brooklyn's bar scene.

eva.kis@metro.us

When it opened back in 2008, the Clover Club wasn't looking for fame. But being a serious cocktail bar in still-sketchy Brooklyn, run by one of the first female head bartenders in the city, there wasn't much chance it would fly under the radar. But when Julie Reiner opened the bar that would put Brooklyn on the cocktail map, she was just looking for her own personal Cheers.

"I loved the people in Brooklyn, and I'd been running the Flatiron Lounge for so long and dealing with the weekend crowds from all over the country — I was a little bit exhausted by that," she says. "I was like, 'Wouldn't it be great to have a bar that's just all New Yorkers?'"

Ten years ago, that's all you'd find in Carroll Gardens — if you could even get a cab to take you there. But the neighborhood, and very quickly the world, took notice of the bar, with its cozy 1890s-style main room of mahogany and tin, maroon leather banquettes and crystal chandeliers, and that Victorian vintage back room with a fireplace.

And then there was the extensive nine-section menu, where seasonal specials mingled with clever takes on iconic cocktails like the Improved Whiskey Cocktail — so it had to be right or else — as well as trend-setting items like bowls of Champagne punch and fresh fruits and vegetables, unheard of at the time for a bar. And none of it was pretentious: The original drink menu began with brief introduction that included the phrase, "we just want you to have a great time."

To celebrate 10 years of reinventing what a neighborhood bar could be, the Clover Club is bringing back some of its early classics with a "yearbook" of its greatest hit cocktails launching June 18. Over 40 drinks by Reiner as well as some of the bar's most famous alumni are

So how did it all start? We asked Reiner to share her journey from the beaches of Hawaii to creating the bar that would put Brooklyn on the cocktail map.

While studying at Florida State University, she slung the watery beers and shots that college students want "to get totally obliterated."

Getting serious
It wasn't until she landed in California in 1997 that Reiner started making serious cocktails. "San Francisco at the time was using fresh juice and was very forward-thinking as far as the fresh, organic

Not-so-craft start
Reiner got her start in hospitality at 18 as a cocktail waitress in her native Hawaii, serving drinks more memorable for their color than flavor to tourists on the beach.

movement," she recalls. Three years later, she moved to New York and started managing a little bar in the West Village where she "started taking a little more of a culinary approach to cocktails."

The famous friend

Rainbow Room legend Dale DeGroff heard about Reiner's fresh cocktails and experimental style and sought her out. "I didn't really realize anybody else cared about high-quality cocktails at the time," she says. "I went from entertaining myself behind the bar to being on the front page of The New York Times."

The first taste of success

Seeing the demand for good cocktails led Reiner to open the Flatiron Lounge in 2003, then Pegu Club, both of them incredibly well-received at the time and continuing to be places other bartenders look to for both a solid grounding in the classics and innovation.

Taking a chance on Brooklyn

Then Reiner moved to Park Slope in 2006 and realized that if she wanted to find good cocktails, she was going to have to make them herself. "It was definitely a gamble."

We opened in 2008, when the economy crashed and the political climate was terrible." But then came the accolades, most notably being named Best Cocktail Lounge just one year after opening by the Oscars of the bar world, Tales of the Cocktail.

The secret to her success

The Clover Club was born out of Reiner's passion to create a comfortable local bar for her neighbors, but it's endured through the work of the passionate people she's attracted, including Ivy Mix of Leyenda and Gillian Vose of the Dead Rabbit.

Being a woman at a time when women weren't even allowed behind the bar at some of the best places in town, including the revered speakeasy Employees Only wasn't easy. "I've surrounded myself with strong, talented women in the bar industry and so I don't experience a lot of the things that a lot of women do experience."

Daniel Radcliffe is returning to Broadway

These days, there seems to be nothing more American than telling lies, so what better time for a Broadway show about it?

With the tagline "Anyone who has never told a lie has never told a good story..." and the title "The Lifespan of a Fact," it's getting political again on Broadway. The cast includes Daniel Radcliffe, last seen off-Broadway warning us about the dangers of social media in the Public Theater's play "Privacy." Cherry Jones and Bobby Cannavale.

The show is based on a work by John D'Agata and Jim Fingal that The New York Times described as "less a book than a knock-down, drag-out fight between two tenacious combatants, over questions of truth, belief, history, myth, memory and forgetting."

Radcliffe plays Fingal, a fact-checker at a top national magazine who has to confront journalist D'Agata (Cannavale) over made-up facts in a huge story.

While "The Lifespan of a Fact" will play on Broadway, it won't be in a conventional venue: the former nightclub turned 1,006-seat theater Studio 54, at 254 W. 54th St. Performances start Sept. 20, with opening night set for Oct. 18. The show will play a limited engagement of 16 weeks.

Tickets go on sale today at 10 a.m. for Audience Rewards members — it's a free program that rewards you for seeing Broadway shows. Get them through Telecharge or by calling 212-239-6200. The general sale begins Friday, June 22 at 10 a.m. EVA KIS

John Travolta on going gangster for 'Gotti'

The actor, film producer, dancer and singer chats with Metro about his storied career and playing the infamous New York crime lord in the new drama.

directed by "Entourage's" Kevin Connolly.

Ahead, Travolta opens up about the role, his aspirations to play a bad guy in a Bond movie, and more.

You're promoting the 40th anniversary of "Grease" at Cannes this year.

Yes. I will be there presenting the film and inviting everybody to dance on the sand. But isn't that amazing? This is a film that keeps on giving and giving.

you wore his clothes, and even used his cologne.

Did that help?

Yes. His scent is still there. I had his coat, his cufflinks, his watch, his shirt. And it fit me. It's interesting because he's shorter than me. I'm a big guy, but he was too. But I really liked wearing his stuff. It helped me.

Do you have any specific memories from the Gotti story?

My favorite was finding out why everybody liked him so much. Because my superficial reaction was at first: "Why was he so popular, why was he so loved?" He was a guy who didn't let a business go out of business. He helped out sick people, people in need. Even though he managed a criminal outfit, he came back to the community. In a way, he was closer to the "cosa nostra" that had a loyal devotion and trust. The RICO Act (Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations) blew all that out for him. But he was a different kind of criminal.

Is it true that you want to do a Bond film?

Yeah! Because I grew up with those films. When Bond first came out I was 8 years old and was fascinated by it. It's something from my childhood that stays with us. I don't get impressed by Marvel films at all, but with Bond, yes. I think I can do a good Bond villain. That would fulfill a childhood dream of mine.

John Travolta and wife Kelly Preston join up as a couple (for the third time) in "Gotti," a film about the infamous Gambino crime-family leader. Metro caught up with Travolta at Cannes earlier this year, where he danced on the beach and admitted he wanted to play a Bond villain, among other highlights.

Is there a perfect setting for an almost perfect interview with one of the greatest character actors of our time? Picture this: a glitzy glamour suite at top of Carlton Hotel, the wonder of La Croisette, in the busy town of Cannes during the 71st edition of the film festival.

The equation quickly comes together when this elegantly dressed, charming man comes in the room and shakes our hands with an open, bright smile and shiny blue eyes. Not at all the dark character we saw during the screening of "Gotti," where the 64-year-old actor plays mobster John Gotti Sr. in a biopic

Well, along with "Pulp Fiction," "Saturday Night Fever," "Face/Off" and your other hits.

Yes, all those films are still very watchable. They seem to be timeless. "Pulp Fiction" is 24 years old, but we still watch it on the internet. Same thing happens with "Grease" and "Saturday Night Fever." There are even emojis of myself in those movies! How do you predict something like that?

John Gotti is a pretty dark character. I know

EDUCATION

How to pay for law school

Going to law school usually means taking on a lot of debt. Almost 90% of law school students take out law school loans, and the average law school debt was $127,000 at private law schools and $88,000 at public law schools, according to the American Bar Association's most recent data.

NerdWallet is a personal finance website.

Law school financial aid
Before taking out law school loans, exhaust your grant and scholarship options. Many law schools offer need-based and/or merit-based scholarships, and there are outside scholarships available from firms and industry associations.

Follow these steps — in order — to make sure your financial aid bases are covered.

Fill out the FAFSA. The Free Application for Federal Student Aid is the most widely used financial aid application, so it's crucial to complete. It's required for many scholarships and grants, as well as for federal work-study programs and federal student loans. In addition to the FAFSA, some law schools may require that you submit the CSS Profile, which is a form that hundreds of colleges use to award nonfederal financial aid.

Law school loans

If free financial aid doesn't cut it, you'll need law school loans. There are two main types: federal and private. Compare interest rates, fees and repayment options among federal loans and private student loans to find the best option for you.

If you're ultimately torn about which type to borrow, take out federal loans — they generally have more repayment options and the interest rates are identical for all borrowers, regardless of credit. But there are a few instances in which private loans are the best option.

Federal loans are better if you:

Plan to go into public interest law or government, or want to keep that option open; have bad or average credit and don't have access to a co-signer who has good or excellent credit; want the option to make income-based payments after you graduate.

Private loans are better if you:

Plan to work in the private sector; have good enough credit to qualify for a lower student loan interest rate with a private lender; are comfortable giving up the option to make income-based payments after graduation.

Mexico shocks defending champs Germany in opener

Hirving Lozano's goal propelled El Tri to an unlikely victory over heavy favorites Germany.

joseph.pantorno@metro.us

Mexico has exhibited a tendency to play up against elite opponents on the world soccer stage and it had another opportunity to do so on Sunday against Germany in Group F play at the 2018 World Cup. On Sunday, it did just that with a 1-0 victory over the defending world champions thanks to a Hirving Lozano goal 35 minutes into the match.

This is the third-consecutive World Cup that a defending champion has been unable to win its opening match. Italy drew to Paraguay in 2010 while Spain was embarrassed by the Netherlands four years ago. Even more remarkable is the fact that Germany has already trailed more in this World Cup than they did all throughout 2014 (eight minutes vs. Ghana).

There was quite a detour in manager Juan Carlos Osorio's tactics from the usual possession soccer Mexico tends to play. Instead, El Tri seemed content to sit back and absorb Germany's high press and try to find seams of openings behind the midfield in a counter-attacking manner.

It presented some good chances on the break for Mexico to obtain an unlikely opener in the opening half hour, but hesitation near the German box paired with some struggles from midfielder Miguel Layun resulted in those opportunities falling by the wayside.

A counterattack finally reaped a reward for the underdogs in the 35th minute sparked by Carlos Vela, who freed Javier Hernandez with a brilliant through ball from Mexico's own half. With numbers, Hernandez streaked down the center of the pitch and sent a low pass to Lozano on the left side of the box. After one cut got him past a German defender, he coolly finished past Manuel Neuer with his right foot to send the Mexican fans in Moscow into delirium.

The Germans almost sobered the celebrating fans three minutes later when a free kick from Toni Kroos was saved onto the crossbar by Guillermo Ochoa.

Germany pressure only built in the second half as they adapted to Mexico's counter-attacking prowess for the most part. Although Hernandez wasted a glorious 2-on-2 break that could have secured all three points with 35 minutes left to play.

Regardless, there was still plenty of probing by the Germans around the Mexico box, but El Tri remained resolute, ensuring Germany was unable to connect on that final ball. That included a hit post on a backheel by Julian Brandt in the 89th minute.

It's a rare flop for Germany in a World Cup opener. In its last four introductions to a World Cup, Germany had outscored its opponents 20-2. The victory is Mexico's first against Germany in four meetings World Cup play and immediately puts El Tri in the driver's seat to win Group F with matches against Sweden and South Korea remaining.

Kawhi's people like the Knicks

The Spurs star wants out of San Antonio and the Knicks might be on his radar.

joseph.pantorno@metro.us

The Kawhi Leonard era in San Antonio looks to be coming to an end, a report by ESPN's Chris Haynes revealing that the star wants to be traded. This could be very good news for the New York Knicks.

ESPN's Ian Begley added that people close to Leonard want him to be traded to New York.

The 26-year-old's relationship with the Spurs is seemingly unimpeachable after a quadriceps injury created a divide in rehabilitation philosophies between his representation and the organization.

San Antonio is now poised to deal away the future of their franchise who is a two-time All-Star, Defensive Player of the Year and the 2014 NBA Finals MVP Award. He's developed from one of the best defenders in the league to one of the elite all-around talents, averaging 25.5 points per game in 2016-17 before that quad injury limited last season to just nine games.

Leonard is signed through the 2018-19 season and will be eligible for a super-max contract next summer, but if the Spurs to concede to the star's wishes, they will still be looking for a bounty in return. It is worth noting that Leonard would not be eligible for a super-max deal, which would be $31 million less if he were traded.

The Knicks won't be able to provide that seeing as there is little chance they would even consider trading away star big man Kristaps Porzingis. Leonard has been linked to teams like the Philadelphia 76ers this offseason, who can provide a number of young talents that can continue developing toward premier levels.

Leonard himself might prefer to be traded to the Los Angeles Lakers where there is the promise of a super-team alongside the possible acquisitions of LeBron James and Paul George.

But Leonard spent a considerable amount of time rehabbing his quad in New York, so one can't count out the Big Apple just yet.
